

NAVIVA®, A FOUR SEASONS RESORT, PUNTA MITA, MEXICO
2023 FACT SHEET

Overview: Naviva®, A Four Seasons Resort, Punta Mita, Mexico, is the brand’s first adult-only tented resort in the Americas. With only 15 luxury tents – all with private plunge pools – Naviva is one of the smallest Four Seasons resorts in the world where the deep, green jungle is the backdrop for a profoundly personalized retreat.

Surrounded by 48 forested acres (19 hectares) on the edge of a private peninsula, Naviva is an adult-only sanctuary that harnesses nature to create an environment that fosters community, personal growth and appreciation for local heritage. Naviva awakens the intrinsic bond that humans have with nature through biophilic design – an architectural approach that immerses people in their natural surroundings.

Naviva’s untamed natural setting organically sets the stage for individual transformation through Daily, Signature and Unscripted Naviva experiences that are each rooted in one or more biophilic design principles. Daily Naviva experiences focus on movement, gastronomy and cultural insight. Signature Naviva experiences bring heritage, tradition and local expertise to the forefront: Guests may purify and heal their mind and body in the tamazcal (House of Heat); catch fresh snapper along the Resort’s rocky shoreline; or visit a local artist at their private home and studio. Unscripted Naviva moments occur spontaneously and may include a surprise picnic in the jungle.

Design: Through the lens of biophilic design and biomimicry – in which the natural world is the driving influence for design solutions – the natural beauty of Mexico was the key source of inspiration when Naviva was conceptualized with Luxury Frontiers, an award-winning design firm and pioneer in the alternative lodging sector. All building forms, interior designs, and guest experiences tie back to a natural phenomenon, creating a resort concept that is fully derived from nature.

The team collaborated with Mexican artists, craftspeople, and manufacturers throughout the design and construction process, not only to support local businesses but also to create spaces with an authentic connection to Mexico's culture. Highlights include custom furniture from Taracea and Baufactory; artwork from Emma Boomkamp; reclaimed wooden games from Rasttro; and textiles from Anora Casa.

Luxury Tents: Naviva blurs the border between the natural and manmade worlds with 15 luxury tents that are designed to be at one with the surrounding jungle. Spacious indoor and outdoor areas invite the verdant sights and sounds of Riviera Nayarit's unique flora and fauna. An open-air living room and separate king bedroom flow to a private plunge pool and expansive outdoor living area, where a hammock, firepit and outdoor shower offer forest-framed refuge. Inside, textures and fabrics reflect natural patterns found in the environment. Oversized bathrooms house deep soaking tubs and skylit showers that reveal uninterrupted visual connections to the outdoors.

Rate: All-encompassing Naviva stays start at USD 3,950 per night and include all meals, snacks and drinks including specialty meals prepared to enjoy throughout the property, one 60-minute spa treatment per guest, daily practices and rituals, and Unscripted Naviva experiences. Signature Naviva experiences, rare or custom-ordered beverages, additional spa treatments, private classes or training and airport transfers are available for an additional cost.

Dining: Central to the Resort's fluid and informal style, every Naviva stay includes all meals, snacks and beverages – including many premium wines and spirits – whenever a guest may wish. Guests can choose to enjoy fresh seafood at Copal Cocina, graze on light bites inspired by local harvest at Selva Pool or enjoy a personalized menu on the deck of their private luxury tent. Exciting dining experiences abound, from impromptu molcajete salsa making to chef-prepared dinners in the forest. In-tent dining is also available around the clock.

At the heart of Naviva, Copal Cocina welcomes guests to an open-air kitchen and living room where they may meet a local coffee roaster, pop a bottle of Mexican wine with a sommelier, or join Chef Sofia Mojica behind the open-fire grill. With no more than 30 guests at any given time, Copal Cocina offers unique dining experiences that integrate uncommon ingredients and flexible daily offerings that can be adjusted to each guest's preferences. Local purveyors – including farmers and fishermen – periodically visit the kitchen, allowing guests to develop a deeper connection to the local community.

Open-fire and wood-burning cooking methods include those preserved and proudly passed down over many generations that introduce guests to the authentic flavors of Mexico. For example, Copal is home to a pib, an underground oven where meats are wrapped in banana leaves and slowly roasted for many hours.

Wellbeing & Spa: Naviva features a series of intimate wellness spaces including two spa pods tucked away in the forest, a House of Heat temazcal, a cliffside terrace, an open-air gym and nature trails. Each area promotes human connection to nature by grounding guests in tangible and intangible aspects of the environment.

Both spa pods are strategically oriented to receive the sun's energy from dawn to dusk: Alba faces the east and represents the sunrise, while Ocaso faces the west and represents the sunset. Guests are welcomed directly into their private spa pod to fully use the space how they wish. Inspired by the seed of the local Ceiba tree, each cocoon-like spa structure offers a sense of safety that invites shifts in internal energy. Between transformative spa rituals, guests can spend time in each spa pod's personal garden, outdoor shower or timber soaking tub.

The House of Heat invites guests on a personalized temazcal ceremony guided by a dedicated tamazcalero to produce a mind-body healing and awakening. Guests can choose from several focus areas, such as gratitude or devotion, to drive their customized experience. The House of Heat includes a ceremonial fire pit with seating inspired by traditional Mayan stools, a pre- and post- ceremony gathering space and an outdoor shower area.

Naviva guests will also discover wellbeing experiences rooted in the environment at Risco Terrace, where yoga practices include powerful vinyasas and restorative flows, and the outdoor Mar Gym overlooking the Pacific, where strength training workouts incorporate existing formations such as boulders and trees. Guests can find rest and rejuvenation at the Resort's Selva Pool nestled in the jungle or at La Solana Beach, a private 575-foot (175-metre) expanse of Pacific beachfront.

Selva Pool: Naviva's pool is a serene, tranquil forest oasis that winds through the core of the Resort. With ocean views, water features and private sitting areas surrounded by lush foliage, the pool's atmosphere inspires a spiritual connection to nature. Guests can graze with light bites inspired by the local harvest and hydrate with fresh juices, tonics and signature poolside cocktails.

La Solana Beach: Naviva guests enjoy exclusive access to a private expanse of rugged, rocky shoreline where they can lounge on luxe chairs and cabanas throughout the day, participate in a sound bath, have a picnic for lunch, or enjoy cocktails at sunset. Swimmable beach access is available at the adjacent Four Seasons Resort Punta Mita.

Programming: Daily life at Naviva sets the stage for individual transformation as guests explore their passions and discover new ones with the heartfelt support of their certified Naviva guides. Designed exclusively for Naviva, each experience offers opportunity for knowledge enhancement and self-discovery.

Daily Naviva Experiences

Naviva welcomes guests to participate in daily experiences held throughout the property. Example activities include shore fishing, nature hikes to the Azatlán ruins, transcendental journeys, street corn tasting, mezcal bonfires, and full moon Metztli mythology.

Signature Naviva Experiences

Signature experiences bring the character, heritage and expertise of local talent and tradition to the forefront. Guests can visit award-winning local artist Jose Juan Esparza at his private home and studio or explore nocturnal forest bathing under the stars, a Shamanic sound journey with indigenous instruments, or free-diving breathwork.

Unscripted Naviva Experiences

With a style that's informal and fluid, Unscripted moments comprise spontaneous activities for Naviva guests to pursue. Guests might discover a surprise picnic in the jungle, paddle board with Ronny, uncork a bottle of small-batch Mexican wine with Monica, or make molcajete salsa with Chef Sofia.

Sustainability: Naviva's authentic connection to nature is rooted in its thoughtful conception, which began with the rehabilitation of the land on which it now resides. The development team carefully surveyed the land to build around existing trees and preserve the peninsula's lush vegetation, hand-placing tents into the existing environment to minimize disruption to the surrounding forest. Select trees were relocated or salvaged for hand-carved timber hooks placed in each luxury tent, and natural stone found onsite was repurposed for benches. The team also took significant measures to protect animal life by creating new paths that mimic the colours of soil and rocks and using specific lighting types to limit light pollution.

Throughout the property, the design team utilized light-on-earth, low-impact construction materials such as reclaimed wood, local stone, copper, bamboo and concrete. In addition, natural ventilation made possible by the region's prevailing winds limits air conditioning to only the most essential spaces.

As an advocate for sustainable water sourcing, Naviva partnered with SOURCE Water to bottle all drinking water onsite using hydropanel technology that extracts clean, pollutant-free water from the air.

Events & Retreats: Naviva is available for full resort buyouts for intimate weddings and private events for up to 30 guests. The adjacent Four Seasons Resort Punta Mita offers additional indoor and outdoor meeting and event spaces.

Retail: Instead of a traditional brick and mortar gift shop, Naviva guests can purchase select pieces that they find inspiring and happen to come across throughout their stay such as at Copal Cocina. All purchases support local Mexican artisans and craftspeople with items sourced from partners such as Taracea, a family-owned furniture maker that specializes in woodworking with recovered timber, and Eclectic Array, a non-profit organization that provides zero-interest microloans to local artisans across Mexico to help them grow their businesses and maintain their autonomy. Other items for sale include reclaimed wood cutting boards made in Mexico by Rasttro; handmade hammocks made by Makamah; and decorative pillows made with a manual loom by the Roman family, a fourth-generation textile company originally from Oaxaca.
